RULES AND REGULATIONS
OF NASDAQ OMX DERIVATIVES MARKETS

1 GENERAL REGULATIONS

1.1 Introduction

1.1.1 NASDAQ OMX Stockholm AB, organisation No. 556383-9058, ("the Exchange") is authorised by the Swedish Financial Supervisory Authority as an exchange and is licensed to conduct clearing activities in accordance with the Securities Market Act. The Exchange is supervised by the Swedish Financial Supervisory Authority.

1.1.2 The Exchange is part of the NASDAQ OMX Group, with NASDAQ OMX Group Inc (organisation No. 52-1165937) as the ultimate parent.

1.1.3 These Rules and Regulations govern the Exchange's exchange and clearing activities and the legal relationship between the Exchange and Exchange Members, Clearing Members and Customers. The Rules and Regulations become binding between Exchange Members and Clearing Members and the Exchange through the member agreement, appendix 1 or 1A. The Rules and Regulations become binding between a Customer and the Exchange through a Customer Agreement, appendices 2 and 3. The Rules and Regulations also contain certain provisions governing the legal relationship between Exchange Members, Clearing Members, and Customers. The Rules and Regulations further govern the legal relationship between the Exchange and those institutions, Custodian Institutions, in whose custody collateral is held in favour of the Exchange.

These Rules and Regulations include, inter alia, membership requirements and the trading rules and clearing rules applicable in the Exchange's derivative operations. Membership rules and trading rules with respect to share trading, etc. which takes place in the Exchange's trading system SAXESS or INET Nordic, as applicable, are set forth in Norex Member Rules which are available on the Exchange's website (www.nasdaqomx.com).

1.1.4 The Rules and Regulations are comprised of the chapters set forth below and the appendices listed in the table of contents. The appendices relate to, inter alia, standardised Customer Agreements, Exchange Member Agreements and Clearing Member Agreements and Custodian Institution Agreements. The Exchange reserves the right in certain agreements to depart from or add to the text of these agreements, on condition that such departures or additions do not effect a change in a matter material to the Exchange's exchange and clearing operations.

1.1.5 The Rules and Regulations in force from time to time are available on the Exchange's web site www.nasdaqomx.com. Any updates of the Rules and Regulations will normally be made every six months in connection with material amendments and supplements of the Rules and Regulations, as set forth in section 1.17.2. Amendments to appendices to these Rules and Regulations, e.g. the Quotation List or the Parameter Value List, may take place with shorter intervals. In order to receive updated versions, members shall inform the Exchange about contact persons and contact addresses to which updates shall be distributed. The Exchange, Exchange Members and Clearing Members shall make the Rules and Regulations available to Customers. The Exchange shall also make the Rules and Regulations available to the general public.

- 1.1.6 These Rules and Regulations constitute both a framework agreement for connection to the Exchange's exchange and clearing operations through the execution of Contracts, and terms and conditions for those Contracts. The framework agreement regulates trading at the Exchange in Exchange Listed Instruments, by means of an exchange regulation governing the relationship between the Exchange and Exchange Members. The framework agreement also governs the performance of those Contracts that are the object of the Exchange's clearing activities, and determines the relationship between the Exchange and Clearing Members, and the rights and obligations arising from the holding of a Contract, which accordingly determines the relationship between the Exchange and Clearing Members and Customers. When a Contract is entered into with the Exchange, either on the Exchange's exchange marketplace by an Exchange Member, or for a Customer through the intermediary of an Exchange Member, or directly with the Exchange's clearing operations by a Clearing Member or for a Customer through the intermediary of a Clearing Member, the content of that particular Contract is established through the recording of the Contract on an account. This framework agreement and all those Contracts recorded on an account, in this respect constitute an agreement between the Exchange and the account holder.
- 1.1.7 The general regulations governing the Exchange's exchange- and clearing operations are set forth in this Chapter 1, below.
- 1.1.8 The Exchange's exchange operations have the aim of establishing a market for trading in Instruments between Exchange Members connected to the exchange. Trading in this respect is limited to Exchange Series and is conducted on the Exchange's exchange trading systems. The exchange operations are governed by special rules.
- 1.1.9 The essential features of the Exchange's exchange operations are outlined as follows. Through the exchange trading systems, the Exchange receives from Exchange Members various bid and ask Orders relating to Exchange Listed Instruments. An Exchange Member may act on his own behalf or in his own name on behalf of Customers. The Exchange ranks and disseminates information relating to the incoming Orders. The Exchange Member's identity is not included in the order information disseminated. After the Exchange has received a Bid- and an Ask-Order with corresponding terms, the parties who placed the Orders enter into an Exchange Transaction. An Exchange Transaction is documented by the Exchange by means of Registration whereby the Exchange Transaction is replaced by one or more Contracts. The Exchange prepares a contract note regarding the Exchange Transaction that has been entered into, and delivers it to the Exchange Members in question. The Exchange supervises the exchange trading and continuously disseminates information concerning the exchange trading. The Exchange Regulations are set out in more detail in Chapter 2 below.

- 1.1.10 The Exchange's clearing operations have as their aim to guarantee the performance and to administer the settlement of agreements entered into between Clearing Members and Customers admitted to the operations. Agreements entered into in this respect are referred to as Contracts and are account documented with the Exchange. That Customer or Clearing Member who is documented on an account with the Exchange as a party to a Contract, either buyer or seller, is that which is obligated towards the Exchange to fulfil the obligations resulting from the Contract, and who is the party to which the Exchange contractually may perform those obligations resulting from the Contract. The clearing operations are governed by special rules.
- 1.1.11 The essential features of the Exchange's clearing operations are outlined as follows. Those admitted as Customers are usually identified solely through an account number and are represented in relations with the Exchange by a Clearing Member. The Exchange guarantees the performance of Contracts by entering into them as counterparty. Those wishing contracts entered into to be included in the Exchange's clearing operations may so request from the Exchange. Exchange Transactions entered into at the Exchange are usually included in the Exchange's clearing operations. Exchange Transactions or other agreements entered into that are approved by the Exchange are Registered as Contracts in Trading Accounts or Integrated Trading and Clearing Accounts, through the intermediary of Clearing Members admitted as Trading Account Administrators. Specific Protest time limits apply to Re-registration. Different rights and obligations result from Contracts, such as the performance or receipt of Deliveries and payments, and also the provision of collateral for future obligations. In the determination of those rights and obligations resulting from a Contract, the Exchange usually takes into account other Contracts Recorded with the same account holder, such as the set-off, as far as possible, of deliveries and payments to be performed, so-called netting, and such as the calculation of collateral requirements, taking into consideration as far as possible all Contracts for which the account holder is Registered, so-called cross-clearing. The determination of rights and obligations for a certain account holder shall take place on the Integrated Trading and Clearing Account or the Clearing Account, where the account holder's Contracts which are Registered on its Trading Account are automatically Recorded. The performance of account holder duties and obligations shall take place through the intermediary of a Clearing Member who is a Trading and/or Clearing Account Administrator. Collateral provided with the Exchange is usually placed in the custody of a Custodian Institution. The Exchange continuously disseminates information concerning its clearing operations. The Clearing Regulations are set out in more detail in Chapter 3 below.
- 1.1.12 Instruments provided by the Exchange are specified in Chapter 4 below. The Instruments provided can be Exchange Listed or Clearing Listed, or both.
- 1.1.13 The defined terms used in these Rules and Regulations are defined in the list of definitions.
- 1.1.14 Times stated in these Rules and Regulations refer to times in Sweden, unless expressly stated otherwise. Deviations from times stated in these Rules and Regulations may occur in connection with holidays, etc. and notice thereof shall be given accordingly.
